

International visitors seeking home and community based care in the United States

We deliver services that enable chronically ill, disabled, and recuperating patients to receive the care they need in the comfort and privacy of a home-like setting. Our homecare services provide compassionate, skilled and unskilled care services to patients when they need them the most.

How it works

Maxim Healthcare works in tandem with embassies and hospital systems to place nurses with patients in need of care. We have experience working directly with embassies to negotiate reimbursement and obtain the Letter of Guarantee if needed. Our services can last from a few weeks to years, depending on the individual's needs.

Respecting and bridging cultural and language differences is important to Maxim. We provide 24/7 translator assistance services covering over 240 languages for caregivers, patients and families. In addition, our employees complete cultural sensitivity training as a part of their annual compliance training.

Maxim's services

Maxim's team of nurses, therapists and home health aides provide comprehensive care and support in the comfort of a home-like setting. We work with patients, families and physicians to implement plans that promote clinical excellence and outstanding customer service.

For those who need more intensive care, our skilled care services include private duty nursing, tracheostomy and ventilator management, enteral care, complex intravenous therapy management, intermittent skilled nursing and therapy visits. Our unskilled personal care and companion services cater to seniors, those recovering from injury or operations, new or expectant parents and those who need a little extra help. Our unskilled caregivers can help with mobility assistance, meal preparation, housekeeping and other tasks.

Commitment to excellence

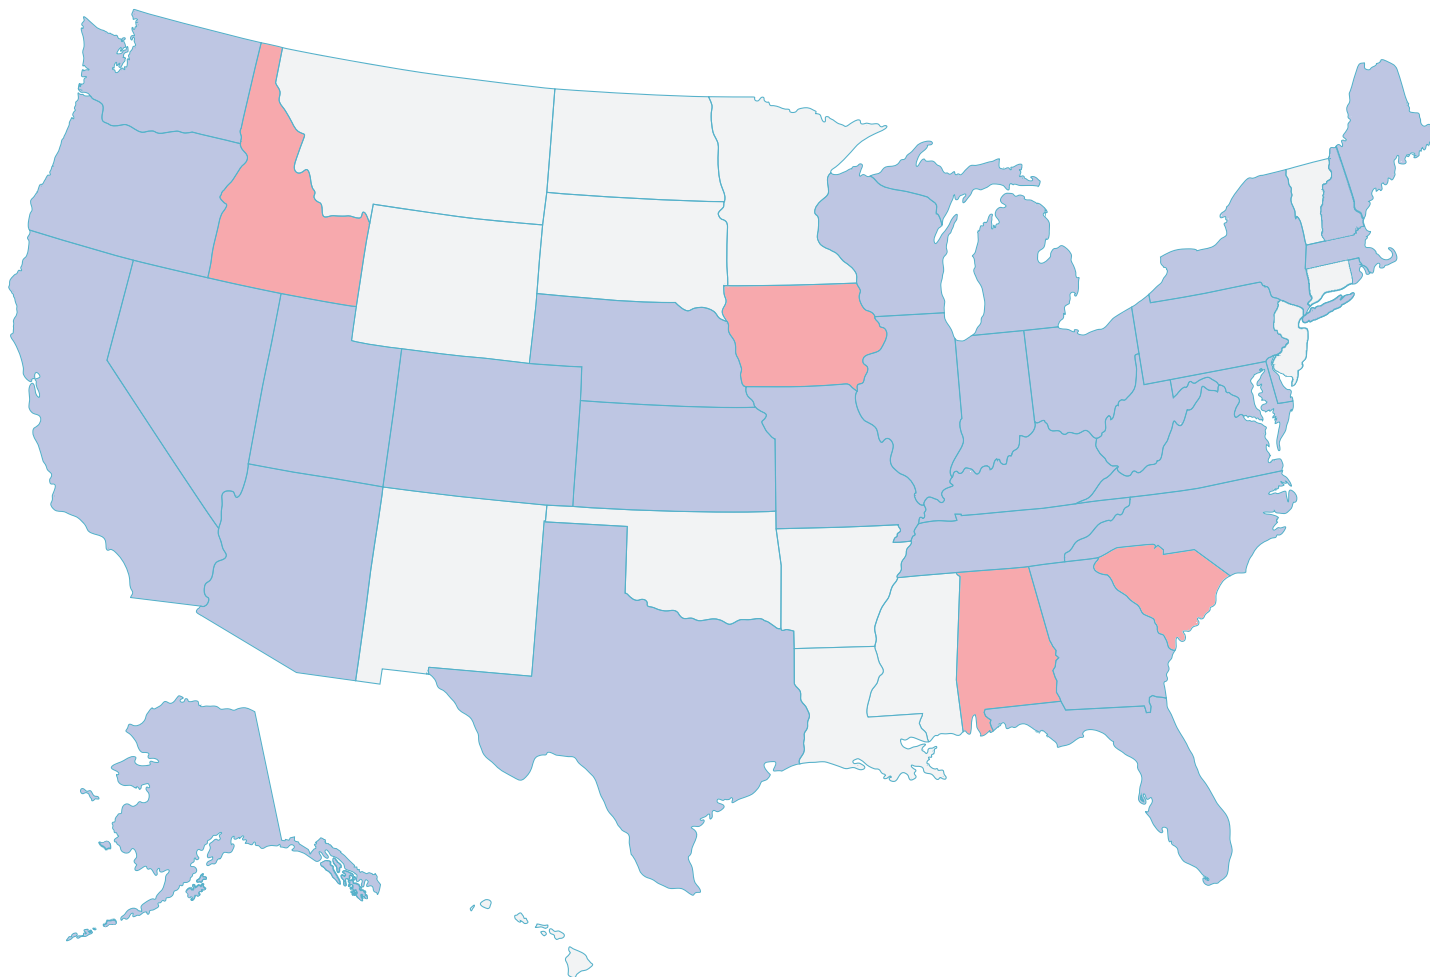

At Maxim, we believe in hiring the best. You can rest assured that our caregivers undergo thorough screening before employment, including background checks, reference checks, license verifications and a formal orientation.
